AN EMPTY PEACE RESOLUTION

BUT NO PLAN TO END WAR

The enemies of former President Wilson have conquered; but their victory has been empty and meaningless. They have succeeded in scrapping the Versailles peace treaty, and for three long years they have sought a substitute for it. Finding nothing, they have adopted a little resolution, they call a peace resolution. It means nothing and stands for the same. Nobody knows what is in it, and nobody cares. The Germans, for whom it was evidently meant as a kind of sop, have ignored it and in secret probably ridiculed it. Mr. Harding signed the "epoch making document" about the time Dempsey was knocking out Carpenter at Jersey City, but the end of the first in the 18 foot ring created enthusiasm, the Harding ending of the fight that involved every human being on the earth, created no enthusiasm. Indeed, what is out of season is out of reason! One of the most miserable pages of all our foreign policy history was written when Lodge and his associates in the Senate and the Republican majority in the House wrote some kind of a meaningless statement saying there was no state of war between this country and the Central powers.

Where are all the promises made by Harding, that in place of the League of Nations, there would be established "An Association of Nations" to prevent war? For all these months Harding has not said a definite word about seeking an alliance or association against war? He has been left to his own device for a reasonable and respectable length of time, in the hope that he would make good on his peace promises. Now comes Hamilton Holt, one of Harding's duly constituted supporters, and asks his choice for the Presidency, what he purposes to do to establish an association of nations, in support of his solemn pledge. No reply from Harding.

England and Japan later prove eager to disarm, and agree in advance to enter a disarmament agreement with the United States. Still no response from Harding. One of the most unpopular men anywhere—Senator Borah, of Idaho, introduces a disarmament resolution in the upper House. It is adopted almost unanimously, and urged on by public sentiment, the lower house adopts the same resolution. Now it is before the President. What will he do about it?

In the first place it was a personal hatred of President Wilson, that prevented the putting into effect so far as this country is concerned, the best and boldest scheme ever tried for bringing about the reign of law, in the place of the power of brute force.

Are such little mean motives still actuating Mr. Harding and the men who seem to control him? If the Wilsonian peace policies are wrong, and the people of the nation still demand world peace, as they certainly do, why cannot the Harding administration formulate some practicable and acceptable plans for peace? The autocrats of Republicanism would have none of the League of Nations peace provisions, but they have not offered any substitute for them! It seems that unless some way is found by which Mr. Wilson can be proven wrong, and a new peace plan made, we will continue to cry for peace.

The responsibility for the humility and shame with which we must face the world lies squarely before the door of the Republican party. It is futile to blame a few men. The seven million majority who voted Harding into office must bear the responsibility and the shame. Until this seven million and the other millions that voted the Republican ticket last November, can find some way to either make their leaders act, or recall them, there seems to be little hope that the American people will ever reap the fruits of their great moral and military victory of 1918.

NOT DRUNK BUT SLEEPING

The true account below of auto drivers who fell asleep while at the wheel and all but met with disaster should furnish food for thought:

Some time ago a man was coming into town late and just after starting across the Highland bridge beyond the river he went to sleep and his automobile ran several feet before he awoke to find one of the front wheels pushing slightly against the bridge railing. He pulled away instantly. In a moment more he would have torn down the railing and gone off the bridge. Another Johnston county man going with others to a convention one night about midnight went to sleep and his car dashed out into a wheat field some distance from the road. He woke up and backed into the road with no damage except a few minutes' delay. If his car had left the other side of the road it would have gone down a precipice and no one can tell what would have been the result. Last week a man on his way home between 1 and 2 o'clock at night went to sleep and drove the car into a ditch, the result of which was to slip open one of the tires, causing a loss of several dollars.

The incidents mentioned remind that sleeping at the auto wheel, is about on a par with sleeping on guard during war time. It is important to those who expect to make long trips in automobiles as their own chauffeurs that they should be wide awake and in good condition physically. Human endurance has its limitations and too severe a test should never be put upon it.

Automobile driving has become so customary, that the danger involved in the practice is apt to be overlooked, as evidently the case with the persons described above.

In case one is inclined to be "sleepful" when driving, he might carry a weight or something, such as sleepy night watchmen are said to carry—so when they doze off, the weight will fall on the floor of the automobile and awaken the sleeper. In case one is being driven by a regular chauffeur, it would not be a bad idea to have a sharp pointed instrument always at hand to "test" the man at the wheel, as to whether or not tired nature's sweet restored has him, or whether he is turning the steering wheel aright.

The courts have held that one cannot marry by proxy. If they could just fix up some way to keep us from marrying by mistake, what a happy world we would have!

The Republicans showed very plainly how ashamed they were of their separate peace with the Central powers, by putting it over at the time of a great prize fight, when few noticed what was done. Hands up for all who have read the said resolution, or who cared a hoot about it!

The forms of good breeding that we go through every day, do not necessarily prove that we possess good breeding.

Maybe the Weather Man is sore over the triumph of Dempsey, is the reason he is making it so hot for everybody.

The new line up or something, caused the balls to be lined out Wednesday. Or was the heavy batting inspired by the manly form of "Lanky" Bass?

The Agricultural block has actually blocked H. C. Lodges. It is a pity Mr. Wilson did not have the benefit of it.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS FOR SABBATH AND OTHER DAYS

By J. E. Blair

The Poet Shakespeare said that all the world is a stage, and that its inhabitants play their part and they make their exit. Mr. Shakespeare could have more truly said: "The world is a court room, and every living person is being tried—and at the same time is trying some one else". The truth of this latter statement rests upon the fact—believe it or not, just as you please—that humanity, "the off spring of deity", is more interested in RIGHT and WRONG, than in any other question. By way of illustration—What raises the biggest howl on the baseball grounds, it is a fine play, a poor play, or even a "home"? No. It is always some decision of the Umpire where right and wrong is involved. And again, despite the words of George Harvey and others of his ilk, this nation went into the world war on a single issue—The American people did not think it was right to stand idly by, while civilization was being murdered. What is it at bottom, that is keeping labor and capital at each others throats? Is it because the former class thinks capitalists should keep them up—furnish them a "decent living"? No. Every self respecting working man expects to give value received for all he gets. The whole trouble between capital and labor arises because neither class thinks the other is giving a square deal!

In the out-set it was said that "every LIVING person" is on trial. Dead batteries, never draw the fire of enemy guns. Men, spiritually dead are not put on trial. It took a St. Paul to be hauled before Agrippa. Men who have no living convictions, are never put on trial in the court of the world. The "live wires" are the ones who are testified for and against in the courts of life! Who ever heard of a person who did not raise the question of RIGHT and WRONG being severely criticised? But on the other hand let a man who professes to be a Christian say, stand for election to office, and if he has any character, it will be black as midnight or fair as a lily before election day! The secret of this is not all together malice, as many believe, but because the people at large are very determined on questions of right and wrong, when once they are aroused. They are determined to make a man live right, who professes to do so or know the reason why! Humanity is determined to get at the facts, as to the right and wrong of things. We take no man for granted—every man has to prove what he is. We put every one on the defensive in our great life court. "Judge not that ye be not judged" is a statement of the Master, that is both misunderstood and disregarded. We disregard it, when we pass judgment without being in full possession of the facts. The Savior could not have meant however that under no circumstances should we judge one another, for the disposition to pass judgment is a God-given quality—it is a characteristic that we inherit from our Maker. But because our ability to judge is very small and undeveloped, we should exercise it seldom—and we should never pass final judgment on any person or persons. Finally it should be noted, that there is a lot of humbuggery and imposition practiced by shrewd men, over the questions of right and wrong. They know that this instinct is found alive and easily aroused in most crowds of people. You have doubtless heard "orators" say, as they were forging the final link in the chain, that bound the unthinking crowd to them—such and such a thing—"is not right." Mark Anthony's oration over the dead body of great Caesar is a fine example of where the demagogue played upon the people's sense of right and wrong. When they wished to have Christ Himself, condemned to death, they appealed to this same instinct by charging that "He made Himself equal with God," therefore He was blasphemous, therefore He was not right, and hence He should be crucified.

Humanity is right in taking such an interest in right and wrong. The instinct is a divine one, although it is often abused and put to evil purposes, just as many good qualities are. It is a good thing to be practicing up in the courts of life; for some day we shall all appear before the great and final tribunal, there to give an account for the deeds done in the body, as touching right and wrong.

THE AUDIENCE WILL NOW STAND

Oh, say, can you sing from the start to the end,

What so proudly you stand for when the orchestra plays it?

When the whole congregation, in voices that blend,

Strike up the grand tune and then Torture and slay it

How valiant they shout when they're first starting out.

But "The dawn's early light" find they're floundering about;

Tis "The Star Spangled Banner" they're trying to sing

But they don't know the words of the precious brave thing.

Hark, "The twilight's last gleaming" has some of them stopped,

But the valiant survivors press forward serenely

To "the ramparts we watched" when some others are dropped,

And the loss of the leaders is manifest keenly.

Then "the rocket's red glare" give the bravest a score,

And there's few left to face "the bomb's bursting air."

Tis a thin line of heroes that manage to save.

The last of the verse and "the home of the brave."

The only reason hair dressers are not as talkative as barbers, is because hair dressers' customers can hold their own.

A FABLE

Once upon a time there was a fair Jane who had managed to snare two young men at the same time, which is considerable feat, considering what the competition is nowadays. And one of these birds was the son of his father, and that was all he did for a living—Father had a nickel for every drop of water in Lake Michigan, and son enjoyed an allowance that sounded like the annual income of the Standard Oil Company. And son's name was Elmer.

Now the other part of this here sketch was a lad named Willyum. He worked hard every day at the glue factory, and pulled down $4.30, every night, with time and a half for overtime.

Elmer had an automobile as long as from here to Athens with more cylinders than Galli Curci had notes Willyum had a second-hand flivver that he had bought himself.

Now both these Yokels asked little Bright Eyes to go riding on the same evening.

She went to her handsome Border, and sat on the Chase Lunge, and said: "It is quite true that Elmer has a wonderful motah, but his father has given it to him. I would be the envy of every Jane in the village if I went riding with him, but he did not earn the motah by the sweat of his brow. Willyum's flivver looks like something the junk man found in the alley, but he bought it all himself. Therefore, I will go with Willyum, scorning Elmer and the princely gifts that he did not earn."

MORAL—This is another one of them fairy tales.

The hardest thing in getting out this column is hunting the shears after the stenographer borrows them. But maybe when she gets a raise she'll buy herself a pair.

Don't forget the name of the remedy you need when the stomach or bowels are disordered. Prickly Ash Bitters quickly corrects such troubles and makes you feel bright and cheerful. HOT, DIZZY FEELING

Atlanta Lady's Uncomfortable and Annoying Condition Relieved, She Says, by Cardui.

Atlanta, Ga.—Miss Alice Frances Young, of 28 East Alexander Street, this city, says: "After entering womanhood, I suffered so much with womanly weakness, my back ached. I would have, at certain times, a hot feeling that seemed to go to my head. Even my shoulders would hurt, and it made me very dizzy and uncomfortable. When the blood would rise to my head—I suppose that was what it was—I would faint and feel so weak. "I couldn't do my work. I had a good position, and this was surely annoying as well as embarrassing. I would usually have to go home and go to bed. I certainly suffered greatly. "I heard of Cardui, and my mother bought it for me. It was the first and only medicine that ever did me any good for this trouble."

Dizziness, headache, sideache, backache, tired-out feeling and other disagreeable symptoms are often signs of womanly troubles. Thousands of women who formerly suffered from these and similar ailments have found Cardui a very valuable remedy.

Cardui is composed only of pure, vegetable ingredients which have long been recognized as of medicinal value in the treatment of many diseases and disorders peculiar to women.

SHE ALSO KNEW TENNYSON

Poetic Business Man Got Something of a "Jolt" When He Tackled Little Waitress.

The man with the superior air was a poetic business man. He generally patronized a small luncheon near his office. When he was not selling eggs at wholesale or something, he liked to read verse. His favorite was Tennyson's "Idylls of the King." And because he felt that he knew so much about it he thought he would have a little fun with the luncheon waitresses, in a superior sort of way.

It began by naming the girls after the heroines in the poem. His regular waitress was a tall, gaunt person, but somewhat queenly as she bore down on him with a plate of hash. Her name was Sadie.

"Sadie," he announced one night "hereafter I'm going to call you Guinevere. Mind?"

"I should worry," said the waitress, shifting her gum, "but who's she?"

"The bride of King Arthur," was the reply.

"Awful, but I hope she's respectable. I ain't seen that Blum."

So it went. All the girls were properly renamed. And then one day a new waitress was on the job. She was small and dark. Exceedingly pretty, he thought.

"I haven't named you yet," he told her after a couple of nights.

Then he explained his little indoor sport.

"I'll let you be Elaine," he said.

"How ridiculous," she answered. "I can't be Elaine."

"Why not?"

"Tennyson says she was fair. I'm a brunette. Elaine the fair, Elaine the beautiful, Elaine the lily maid of Astolat." Evidently you don't remember how the lines went.

The superior bookworm called for his check.—New York Sun.

COTTON MARKET OPENING STEADY

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 9.—The cotton market opened steady today considering the bearish nature of the crop and weather news, first prices showing net gains of from 9 to 15 points. Japanese interests and Wall street bought considerable cotton, while the South was the leading seller. After the start prices eased a little.

HUBBY AT THE COOKSTOVE

Some Excellent Reasons Advanced Why Head of the House Should Know How to Prepare Food.

Cooking has been added to the curriculum of male students at Pennsylvania State college. Cooking is something that all men should know something about.

Some men should know all about it. Particularly should married men have the necessary knowledge so that in the pinch they can escallap a pan of potatoes or stir up a mess of fluffy biscuits.

There is no telling when the good wife may be absent from home at meal time.

As time goes on the legitimate reasons for this are growing.

And what is more pleasing to the average wife than to return from the bridge party or the polling place, a trifle late, perhaps, and worried for fear that she'll not be able to have dinner on the dot—what is more pleasing than to be greeted at the door by the man of the house, all uniformed up in a long overall apron, a dab of flour on his beaming countenance, striving for dear life at a bowl of embryo drop biscuits?

And the teakettle steaming its heart out?

And the smell of burning beefsteak permeating the otherwise hopeful atmosphere?

Man should know how to cook!—St Joseph Gazette.

Traveler Tells of Rats Who Used Their Tails as Fishlines to Catch Crabs.

Captain Moncton in his "Experiences of a New Guinea Resident Magistrate," relates the following incident: "Having landed on an utterly barren island formed of coral rock and destitute of all vegetation, he found it to be the home of an enormous number of rats. There was no trace of other animal life, and it was impossible to imagine how, except by continual preying upon one another, it was possible for these rats to subsist."

"While seated at the water's edge, turning over the problem in his mind, he noticed some of the rats going down to the edge of the reef—lank, hungry-looking creatures they were, with pink, naked tails. He stopped on the point of throwing lumps of coral at them, out of curiosity to see what they meant to do. His curiosity was soon gratified. Rat after rat picked a flatfish place and, squatting on the edge, dangled its tail in the water."

"Presently one rat gave a violent leap of a yard, landing well clear of the water, and with a crab clinging to its tail. Turning around, the rat grabbed the crab and devoured it, and then returned to the stone. Other rats were seen repeating the performance."

Residences Cheaper Now Than Ever Before

EXPLAIN!

WELL, in the olden times, when a five room house could have been acquired for $1500.00, very few people owned their homes. At that time, the earning capacity of men was so far below the price of real estate that very few could afford to buy. The writer knew men in those days to buy homes and be fifteen years in paying for them.

Later on, when the same house advanced from $1500 to $2,500, a great many people began to buy, and a large percentage of the buyers paid cash in full. The only explanation of this is, that the earning power or wages and salaries, increased to over and above the relative price of real estate.

It is a generally acknowledged fact, that it is three to one easier to buy and pay for a home on today's market than it was to buy seven years ago on the price of that day. The only logical answer is, property is cheaper now than it was then.

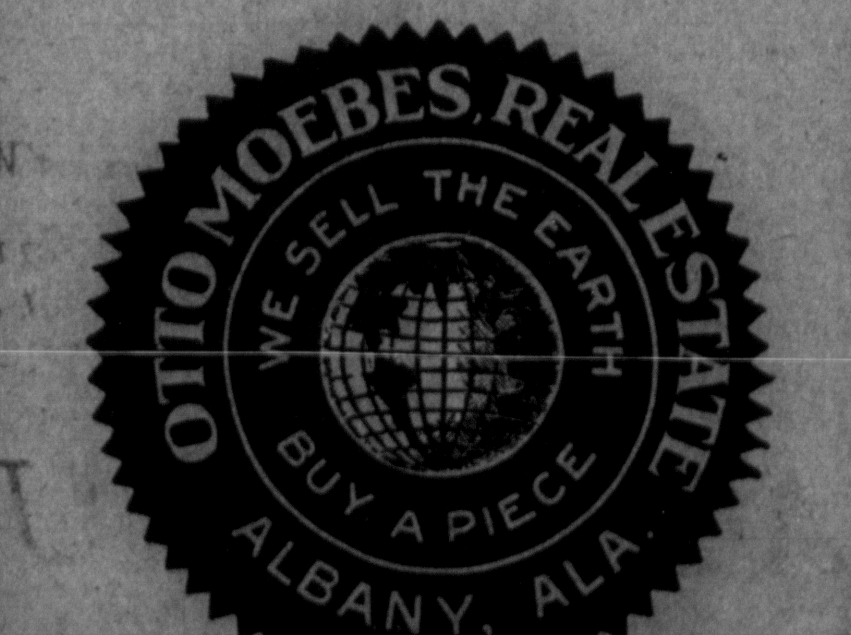

NOW, what advantage is to be gained in waiting? The price of building materials are just about on a level with pre war prices. You say you are waiting for the price of labor to come down? If you are hoping for carpenter wages to get back to 25c an hour as it once was, you are going to be disappointed. We do not want to see it, nor does any one else want to see it, and it is generally believed by all, that the old condition of wages will never return.

Another thing; it is human nature to eat "your pie" when it is sitting before you, but you can't "eat your pie" and have it too; so the safest thing to do is to turn your savings into a home where you can't eat them.

WHAT WE PROPOSE TO DO, is to figure with you on the price of a house already built against what it will cost you to buy the ground and build.

It costs nothing to figure! You select the time and we will be ready.

We also have some attractive exchange propositions.

THE GIBRALTAR OF THE HUDSON

WEST POINT, atop the commanding heights which line the west bank of the historic Hudson river, in the picturesque and so-called "highlands" country and some fifty miles north of New York city, is often referred to as the "Gibraltar of the Hudson."

Here, in a magnificent site of some 3,500 acres, is set down the United States Military academy—our national institution for the training of cadets for commissions in the army. A resolution of the Congress of 1776 provided for the preparation of a plan for "A Military Academy of the Army." General George Washington personally interested himself in the movement.

The original buildings were burned in 1790, but were rebuilt and the actual creation of the academy as known today took place in 1802.

At various times after 1775 this strategic location was fortified and at the close of the Revolutionary war West Point was selected as a depot for the storage of military property.

The majority of the commanding generals on both sides of the Civil war were graduates of this academy. This fact brought the importance of the institution so prominently before the world that its methods were carefully studied by experts of practically every nation of prominence in the world.

The course of instruction covers three years and constitutes the most complete military training in existence.

CHILDRENS PARTY.

A most enjoyable childrens party was that given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. D. P. Humphrey 428 Johnson street to celebrate the birth anniversaries of her two daughters, Jean and Margaret, age six and nine, respectively. The afternoon was delightfully spent in out-door games. Music and two guessing contests. Peggy Davis won the lovely box of stationery offered in the Mother-Goose game and Frances Wilkes captured the doll in the peanut contest. The reception rooms of the Humphrey home were decorated in pink gladiolus and white hydrangeas; a color scheme of pink and white was adhered to throughout. After games, the tiny honorees invited their guests into the dining room where two large birthday cakes, elaborately frosted, awaited them. Mrs. Humphrey was assisted in serving ice cream, cake, and mint by Mesdames I. Scheer, J. F. Browne and Clayton Boggs. The two little girls were the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Those in the party were: Frances Blackwell, Dale Warren, Elizabeth Blair, Mary Harrison, Nellie McJilton, Rebecca Green, Elizabeth Ann Humphrey, Jane, Marjorie, Barbara Ann and Peggy Davis, Helen Rauschenberg, Christine Morley, Katherine Smith, Caroline Cook, Frances Dinsmore, Marjorie Crow, Sarah Wilks, Guendolyn Reams, Elizabeth Ezell, Frances Bessie Crow, Virginia Thomas, Idella Thomas, Frances Wilks, Carol Minor, Mary K. Smithers, Anna L. Mausby, Frances Mausby, Marjorie Phinizy, Harvey Wilks, John B. Old Agricultural implement.

The hoe is probably one of the oldest of agricultural implements. When primitive man found a well-formed limb of a tree with a sharp crook he had a hoe for the cutting, and it was with such hoes as these that the Indians planted their large fields of corn, and prepared the soil for the planting. There probably was not much "hilling-up" done and less weed cutting. There was a little, for effort was made to keep the weeds down until the corn was high enough to shade the ground. Hoeing was soon finished, and the crop was left to itself until the ears were filling, when the children were sent out to the fields to scare the birds away. Farmers today know what damage a flock of blackbirds will do in a cornfield, and what must have been the strength of the flocks when nearly the whole continent was a wilderness?

Naturally Indignant.

Melvin failed to receive much benefit from his Sunday school lesson. His two older brothers took him to Sunday school, and after it was over neglected to look for him. He was discovered crying by a neighbor and taken home. When he arrived home his indignation toward his brothers was terrible to witness. He stamped his foot and said, "You took me down there and lost me!"

The British museum possesses a portrait of Queen Anne not much above the size of a hand, on which appear what seem to be a number of scratches. The scratches when magnified prove to be the entire contents of a book written in the queen's hand.

New York Letter
Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, July 9.—An average of one new play every other day was produced in New York this past season; 157 in all, which is seven more than were put on the year before. The season is counted as over, now, although there will undoubtedly be a few more revues in town during July. Then as early as August, the new season will begin, as against the September and October openings of former times.

The newest surf sport—at beaches hereabouts, is coursing the waves on horse back. Members of a Brooklyn women's riding club started it out at Brighton and the novelty has spread to other nearby resorts. It takes a well-trained horse and a pretty good rider to go in for this form of surf-riding on the really surf-rolled beaches. The steeds fail to seem very enthusiastic about it, no matter how good their training is.

The fetching Julia Sanderson will be back again on Broadway in another four or five weeks under new direction. She will be starred in "Tangierine," a musical comedy with words by Guy Bolton which means Real comedy—the kind you laugh at! Carle Carlton is the producer.

The only woman bird surgeon in the world is Miss Virginia Pope of New York. Miss Pope treats everything from bird croup to a birds broken leg and she goes out at any time of night to attend her patients just as any other physician does. She is also a bird-boarding-house keeper, taking care of canaries and other pets whose families are out of town or need a rest from song. Just now there are 700 birds in her care and her life is a merry one in consequence. A good good many of the 700 she expects to have with her the rest of their lives. People get tired of them and bring them to Miss Pope and then forget to call for them. Of course that isn't what might be called profitable for the bird-surgeon, but she takes just as good care of them as she does of her "paying guests." Her fondest hope is to have a large hospital with plenty of room and equipment. Three floors and a basement get crowded sometimes now.

He is quite comfortable, and that has to do because on the floor below in equal comfort—are his three air-dials with a bought-and-paid-for janitor at their heels when they wish to cruise the streets. Poor Mr. Conway not only pays for the janitor's apartment and the food for the janitor and his two children and his wife and his wife's sister, in order to have his dogs cared for without complaint, but "I can rarely visit them," he says, "and when I come in at night and pass their floor, I have to fake a limp in order not to have them recognize my step and howl all the rest of the night in consequence. It may not be an ideal arrangement for the dogs, but they get more out of it than I do."

The new "Village Follies" will open this month under the protection of the Bohemians, Inc., who will open the production at the little village theatre just as a matter of sentiment before bringing it uptown to greater seating capacity. John Murray Anderson, who has already established his productions as out of the ordinary in the way of musical comedies, premieres something entirely new in this latest edition.

VAUDEVILLE AT THE PRINCESS THEATRE MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

The Princess Theatre on Monday and Tuesday will present three acts of vaudeville in addition to an unusually good picture program. The picture for Monday being John Fox in a celebrated story "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom come" and for Tuesday "The Cup of Fury" by Rupert Hughes.
There will be a complete change of Vaudeville each night which will consist of novelty dancing, singing and comedy and music.

FIRE AND FLOOD EXPERIENCE.

Two machinists, A. C. Coyle and A.
D. Zanvit, had real experiences in fire and flood recently. Mr. Coyle was in Huntsville the 4th, when the cloud burst reported in state papers, broke about 4 p. m. He said that three hours later, the water near the Southern depot was so deep that the auto in which he rode to catch the train mired down and had to be lifted out. He said his brother, who is an employee in the shops upholstery department, walked to the same depot with his shoes over his shoulder and his trousers "rolled."

There was nothing laughable about Andrew (Dutch) Zanvit's fire experience. That boy actually got burned. He came into work all bandaged up Friday. He said that machinist Hartle, gave the fire alarm that aroused the sleepers at the Bond Brothers flats, East Grant street about 2 a.
m. Tuesday night. Mr. Zanvit said his first concern was for the live stock, stabled near the apartments occupied by himself and family, and the family of W. H. Phillips, his father-in-law. He said that he was burned on the arm and about the neck in his attempt to rescue the helpless animals. Mr. Phillips' fine Spanish Jack was burned up, as was a mule, a horse, and some cattle. Mr. Zanvit saved a fine pair of mules, a horse, and several cows and calves. He said the trouble was that when the live stock, would start out of their stables and feel the great heat from the burning flats, that they would retreat into the stables again. He said if two of the stables had had but one door he would have lost the mules and one horse, as they would not come out in the face of the burning buildings.

The blacksmith shop is now receiving a heavy coat of white wash.

says he is an expert taster of peach brandy declared for the whole world to hear, that Trinity Mountain water must flow from under a peach orchard from its delicious taste. Jim

Fire Detector.

There has recently been introduced a compact fire detector which may be installed anywhere in conjunction with a simple electric bell and a few dry cells. The device is a highly sensitive automatic fire detector which quickly acts when the temperature rises above the ordinary. It is adjustable, can be tested, is so simple that it cannot get out of order, and can be installed by anyone. The detector may be installed in the cellar of the private house, the attic, the kitchen and elsewhere, either in single or multiple arrangement, so as to give warning of fire at the moment such fire breaks out. Again, it may be installed in the office, shop, factory or store.—Scientific American.

A Little Patriot.

The other day a parade headed by old soldiers was passing a Terre Haute (Ind.) schoolhouse. The primary teachers started to march their little pupils out to see it. All kept in line except one little fellow who dashed into the cloakroom after something.
His teacher started after him to bring him back into line.

Oh!

"How old are you, Buddy?"
"Six years."
"And what are you thinking of becoming?"
"Seven years."

About dark last evening a bolt of lightning struck a supporting pole of the electric light wires, on First street West, Albany, between 7th and Sixth avenues. The light currents were thereby cut off for all residences in that neighborhood until repairs were made late last night. The stroke of lightning caused consid-
